More Middle School Seats on the East Side

I am pleased to announce that a new middle school will open on the Upper East Side in 2014. Over the last year, I have worked with other elected officials on the East Side to create a coalition with parents and PTA members from elementary schools across our area. Together, we have succeeded in convincing the Department of Education to create a new middle school. This new school is a critical first step to ensure that our neighborhood middle schools have the capacity to serve all of our children.
