Sandy spoke at a rally in Cortlandt to save the Veterans Hospital in Montrose and ensure it remains vital and responsive to the needs of our returning servicemen and women.

Dear Constituent,

Once again, we have had a very busy year filled with accomplishments and challenges. We have hope, with our economy improving, that state revenues will continue to rise so we can restore funding to programs that were cut during the recession.

This past year we were able to get some real traction in my district on road and bridge improvements by repaving a significant portion of Rt. 9/9A from Peekskill to Ossining and parts of Philipstown, restriping the Bear Mountain Parkway from Peekskill to Cortlandt, and repaving the Bear Mountain Pass, just to name a few, in order to improve safety and make it easier to live near and access these roads.

I was also pleased to get passed through both houses and signed into law many bills which I had been working on. Boating safety certificate requirements and no smoking on playgrounds are just two such bills. I look forward to continued success in finding ways to make New York safer and more livable for all.

In 2014, I will continue to focus on savings for taxpayers. I am pleased that the Governor is rallying around the Circuit Breaker legislation which I initially proposed in 2006. Hopefully, with his support and our bipartisan sponsorship in the Assembly and Senate, we can see real movement on this initiative. The Circuit Breaker bill looks at property taxes in relation to income, and limits the percentage that one pays within certain income guidelines. This will be another tool, along with the property tax cap and STAR, plus mandate rollbacks such as pension and Medicaid reform, which will start to make our property taxes less burdensome and more equitable.

I have received an overwhelming amount of correspondence about the new state education reforms and requirements. One of the concerns for parents is the data dashboard and how data is collected and shared. I also have concerns about privacy and the impact of this data collection on students and have co-sponsored two pieces of legislation that would either require parents to opt in or allow them to opt out of having their child's data shared on these databases.

Also, I am pleased that the report from the Moreland Commission's anti-corruption panel has focused on the use of public financing of campaigns as an important component of eliminating a pay-to-play culture in state government. The panel discussion that took place last year at my meeting in Garrison solidified my belief that the only way to end this slippery slope is to level the playing field.

I invite you to attend my town hall meetings this year in January and February, as well as a forum I am hosting for individuals and small businesses to get an update on the new health insurance requirements and tips for success.

I also encourage you to fill out my questionnaire and return it to me so that I can have a sense of where you stand as we embark on the 2014 Legislative Session. As always, I appreciate your feedback and look forward to working together on these and other important issues so we can move forward on a path of continuous improvement in New York.

Sincerely,

At Ossining High School, Sandy was joined by Senator David Carlucci and OHS Health Students as well as anti-tobacco groups and student prevention advocates for the Great American Smoke-out. Here, the legislators announced the bill they are introducing to restrict places where e-cigarettes could be used so that the restrictions mirror those for regular cigarettes.

Sandy joined her friends at the Peekskill Senior Citizens Victorian Tea.

Sandy interviews Kent residents Judge J. Peter Collins and Joyce Mitchell about the benefits of mediation to avoid court proceedings on her local public access TV Show, "Speak Out with Sandy Galef," which runs Wednesday evenings on public access channels offered by Cablevision and Comcast. Sandy's 2013 interns participated in state government over the summer and throughout the school year in her district office. Not only are interns an asset to her office, but they learn a great deal while helping others. For more information on the intern program, see page 4 of this newsletter.

News You Can Use

The following information could be of use to you and your family in the months ahead.

- Governor Cuomo has launched “open.ny.gov,” a new and comprehensive state data transparency website that provides access to data from New York State agencies, localities, and the federal government.
- There is a Global Next of Kin Registry, which has free registration online and through the mail, and is easy to access at <http://www.nokr.org/>. The registry allows people to list their next of kin in the database so in the event of an emergency, the database can be accessed and next of kin can be reached.
- There are over 47,000 accounts, and over $19 million of unclaimed funds being held for constituents in the 95th Assembly District. The New York State Comptroller has a database of unclaimed funds. You can search the database to see if you are owed any money, either on the website www.osc.state.ny.us or by calling the Office of Unclaimed Funds at 1-800-221-9311.
- Some veterans may be unaware of benefits which are available to them. Local agencies can help veterans apply for benefits and provide many other services, including: the Westchester County Veterans Service Agency, 112 E. Post Road, White Plains, 914-995-2145 or 914-995-2146; the Putnam County Department of Veterans Affairs, 110 Old Route 6, Building 3, Carmel, 845-808-1620; or the VA Vet Center, 300 Hamilton Ave, White Plains, 914-682-6250 or 877-927-8387.
- The New York State Department of Motor Vehicles website, “MyDMV,” has been greatly expanded. It now allows users to check the status of a driver’s license, renew or replace a driver’s license, check the number of points on their license, and more. The service is free and can be accessed at www.dmv.ny.gov.
- Starting January 1, 2014, New York State will offer employer incentives to hire post-9/11 veterans. The unemployment rate among this segment of the population remains much higher than the statewide average. The $74 million tax credit will encourage employers to hire post-9/11 servicemen and women who are not currently employed.
- The New York State Department of Motor Vehicles office located in Yonkers is participating in a pilot program to extend their office hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through the end of March 2014. Normally, DMV offices close at 4 p.m.

I am accepting high school and college students into my internship program in my District Office in Ossining. This unpaid opportunity offers students a first-hand look at how a state legislative office is run. Interns write news releases, proclamations, and letters, assist in legislative research, and help with upcoming events.

Anyone interested should contact Dana Levenberg in my office at 914-941-1111 or email her at levenbergd@assembly.state.ny.us.
