

A report to the 25th Assembly District from
ASSEMBLYWOMAN NILY ROZIC

April 2016

New York State Budget Update

After months of grueling negotiations, I am happy to announce a budget agreement that revitalizes our economy and puts families first. This year's budget includes historic measures such as a long awaited paid family leave, gradual minimum wage increase, CUNY tuition freeze, unprecedented education aid in support of public schools, and increased funding towards transportation. As the legislative session continues, I look forward to the work ahead in ensuring that government does all that it can to foster equity and opportunity for all New Yorkers.

Hosting Queens Regent Judith Chin

It was an honor hosting a meet and greet for Queens Regent Judith Chin so that community members could learn more about her role in shaping current and future education proposals. With our district being home to the best schools in the City, I want to ensure that the voices at the table reflect the diversity and growth of Northeast Queens.

Supporting Student Authors at P.S. 46

Congratulations to students at P.S. 46 who had their work showcased for the first annual Writer's Night! I enjoyed speaking to student authors about their inspirations and was happy to take part in an evening celebrating reading and writing!

Shalom Task Force Leadership Meeting

While in Albany, the Shalom Task Force held a meeting to update the Assembly on their recent work. Founded in 1992, Shalom Task Force is a nonprofit organization dedicated to combatting domestic abuse that offers educational workshops and legal services throughout the City. Shalom Task Force Hotline: 718-337-3700

Calling for Improved Express Bus Service

My re-appointment to the Transportation Budget Subcommittee followed months of working with colleagues and transit advocates on pressing issues. Whether it's calling for a state funded MTA capital plan or express bus service improvements in Northeast Queens, I remain committed to bringing about a more efficient and dependable mass transit.
